

I am a frequent business traveler. I already work about 80 hours a week. The only time my office is not calling me or my bosses finding something new for me to do is when i am flying. The moment i get of the plane or on the subway or walking through a store, i hear cell phones. Life is hard enough, do not add another irritating Nuisance to our already busy life.
regards,